The instructor is pretty good. His grading is fair and he tries his best to help us understand the material. He shows us mathematical tricks from time to time and the course is pretty lighthearted in mood. Sometimes I am unable to do certain problems on the homework but that is to be expected. Overall the professor is pretty good.

He knows what he's talking about, though most of the time what he's talking about is way over my head. I think that class participation might make everyone feel a bit more involved. But is helpful when coming in for help, and when he holds review sessions and whatnot.

The professor provides lots of examples during class and taught us alternate ways of solving problems. He is willing to answer students questions and is helpful. The homework he gave us is very helpful and it make sure that the students get the most important ideas and formulas of the chapter.

Overall I enjoy taking this class and would continue taking it if I have the chance.

Very knowledgeable, can cover topics a little quickly, and assume students understand a little more than they do. Very helpful outside of class. Give him a pay raise!

Is very knowledgeable on the subject, but really needs to work on making a connection with his students. Not to say that he fails at it, but I don't feel like he knows me or my habits/needs. I appreciated how in-depth he got with the subject, and I could sense that he had passion for his work; I look forward to working with him in the future.

Professor Ross makes resources available by putting notes on web. But needs more time to explain material more thoroughly. More examples needed.

I feel for an accelerated course we are falling behind the regular class and will be rushed next semester.

Instructor is very helpful.

He has a lot of explanation for the topics in the lecture.

Instructor was available for office hours, but unfortunately my classes were during his regular office hours.

His voice is very calming, it puts me to sleep.

He needs more examples and he needs to explain his examples more thoroughly.

He needs lighter HW loads.
